Sunshine, skates, and dance parties—this is the magic the May issue is made of! For more inside goss, head to seventeen.tumblr.com.

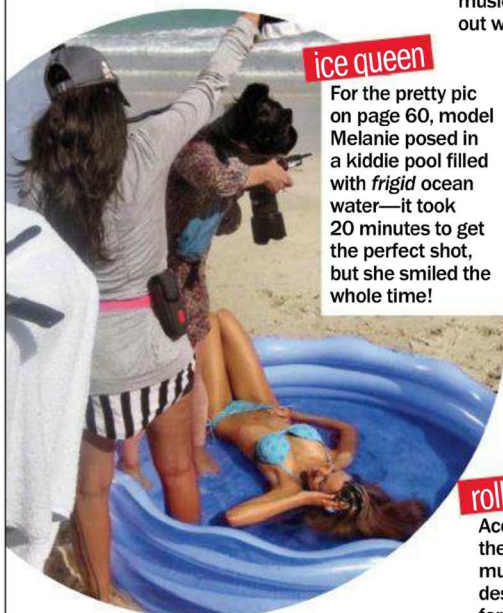

chloë cam

Chloë is known for her serious acting chops, but she had a blast goofing around at our shoot in Beverly Hills, California. She was Instagramming pics all day!

step up

At the shoot for "Party Moves Guys Can't Resist!" (page 92), the hot male models one-upped each other with breakdancing tricks while blasting club music from their iPhones. Our art director freaked out when they almost kicked a ceiling lamp. LOL!

ice queen

For the pretty pic on page 60, model Melanie posed in a kiddie pool filled with frigid ocean water—it took 20 minutes to get the perfect shot, but she smiled the whole time!

roller girl

Accessories Editor Jasmine loved these Fred Flare rainbow skates so much, she wore them all day at her desk—then sent them to Miami for a shoot! See model Imani give them a spin on page 40, and then enter for a chance to win a pair!

Sally Hansen®

hi from ann

66

At Seventeen, we are totally focused on making your life amazing right now: What do you need today, this weekend, this semester—and how can we help you get it? We just know that there's something big out there waiting for you.

And we want to give you the confidence to walk into every situation and own it, so your big future gets brighter and clearer every day.

But for some girls, that future is happening now! I was totally amazed by the young entrepreneurs we're featuring in 'Make Your Own Money!' on page 142. (And if you read this issue on an iPad, you'll get to see even more inspiring girls!) I love that these are girls who had a simple idea, like making gentle beauty products, or had a cool talent, like designing accessories, and figured out how to make it into a real (moneymaking!) business.

You probably have a zillion brilliant ideas. How can you turn one of them into cash? Here are a few insider tricks:

Do what you love: When it's fun for you, you'll want to spend weekends and late nights making your idea come to life.

Stand out: It might seem like all the good ideas are already taken, but what you can do to make your spin different than everyone else's?

Give Back: When you make your school, your community, the world a better place, you'll get the love right back!

Even if you aren't feeling the entrepreneurial spirit, we have tons of cool summer job opps for you. Because when you make your own money, you make your own future. And it's going to be awesome! Tell me what you've got planned this summer at ann@seventeen.com!

XOXO

No purchase necessary. See Rules on page 149.

A powerful acne cleanser couldn't possibly smell delicious.

Scratch that thought. Sniff this.

Only the maximum strength dermatologist-recommended acne medicine in Oil-Free Acne Wash treats breakouts, even blackheads, all with a blast of naturally derived grapefruit.

It's such a pick-me-up, you'll forget it's a powerful acne cleanser.
Until your acne's gone.

Vote & Enter for a Chance to Win!

Earlier this year, we asked readers to share their "on-the-go" tip for remaining unstoppable. Now it's your turn to vote for your favorite "On-the-Go Girl" contest finalists! Visit seventeen.com/playtexsport to vote and you will be automatically entered for a chance to win a $1,000 shopping spree!

ENTER THE SWEEPS

NO PURCHASE NECESSARY TO ENTER OR WIN. The On-the-Go Girls Vote & Win Sweepstakes Sponsored by Hearst Communications, Inc. To enter, go to seventeen.com/playtexsport and vote for your favorite "On-the-Go Girl" from 12:00am ET on March 6, 2012 through 11:59pm ET May 21, 2012 and you will be automatically entered. One vote per person, per day. To win, you must be female, 13-24 years old, and a legal resident of the 50 United States or District of Columbia. Void where prohibited by law. One (1) winner will be chosen at random to receive $1,000 for a shopping spree. Sweepstakes is subject to complete official rules available at seventeen.com/playtexsport.

The Perfect Prom Gift-with-Purchase

Complete your Perfect Prom look with this ultra-glam bracelet. It's FREE with the purchase of any three of the P&G Beauty products featured in the "Countdown to the Perfect Prom" section on pages 67-70 (while supplies last). Just text PROM to 467467 and be ready with your qualifying UPC codes!

The Perfect Prom Gift-with-Purchase sponsored by Hearst Communications, Inc. To get a free gift from Seventeen, be one of the first 700 to text PROM to 467467 and enter three qualifying UPC codes. 700 gifts available. Promotion starts April 10, 2012 at 12:01am ET and ends May 21, 2012 at 11:59am ET, or while supplies last. Each person who texts to receive a free gift also consents to receive a text message notification of whether you are one of the 700 winners or not. Sponsor's order of receipt of entries is final. Mobile phone entrants will be charged standard text messaging rates for text messages sent and received. ShopText has a NO-SPAM promise. Contact your carrier for pricing plans and details. Must be female, 13-24 years old, and a legal resident of the 50 United States, Puerto Rico, or District of Columbia. Void where prohibited by law. Limit one entry per person.

SUMMER BEAUTY BUMMERS, SOLVED!

INGROWN HAIRS

Q: The bumps on my bikini line are really red and irritated. Should I pluck out the ingrown hairs?

A: Leave the tweezing for your brows! Picking at bumps could cause scarring or infection. Instead, after shaving or waxing, use an aloe-based bikini spray. It helps soothe the area and prevent ingrowns.

try: Sally Hansen Zero Bumps Bikini Spray, $8. drugstores

BODY ACNE

Q: Ugh, I have acne on my back. How do I prevent it?

A: The next bathroom break you get, use these premoistened wipes! They sweep away sweat and oil that builds up during the day, so your skin doesn't get clogged.

try: Neutrogena Oil-Free Cleansing Wipes Pink Grapefruit for Acne-Prone Skin, $8. drugstores

FACIAL HAIR

Q: I have random (embarrassing) hairs on my face. Is it okay to shave?

A: Waxing is a better option because unlike shaving, it pulls hair out from the root, leaving you with smooth skin for up to six weeks. This mini tube comes with a roll-on applicator, so you can target itty-bitty hairs easily.

try: Nair Precision Face Roll-On Wax Kit, $8. drugstores

Countdown to ADVERTISEMENT WorldMags.net The Perfect Prom

The countdown is on! Your Prom is going to be a blast, and P&G Beauty is here to get the party started. Getting ready is one of the best parts of Prom, so grab your BFF and start things off right by prepping together with must-have beauty products.

One Month before Prom

Go from “to-do” to “tah-dah!” by starting Prom prep a month before the big night.

• GET FIT TO BE TRIED.

You’ve narrowed it down to your dream dress, and now is the time to make sure it fits perfectly. Try it on to see if it needs any alterations.

• TAP INTO YOUR CENTS OF STYLE. Before you spend a fortune on accessories, raid your friends’ closets and let them do the same. You might uncover the perfect belt, necklace or bag to borrow instead of buy.

• BE A SHOE-IN. Practice walking in your heels. When Prom night comes, you’ll have perfected your balance and the soles will be less slippery.

Go behind-the-scenes at our photo shoot!
Check out the action and hear more Prom tips.

Two Weeks before Prom

2 weeks to go...
time to refresh
and re-boot!

- WAY TO GLOW! Start improving your skin's tone and texture. Olay 2-in-1 Daily Facial Cloths will give you smoother skin in just 1 week.
- TAG...YOU'RE IT! Prom pics will be online before the night is even over. Be Prom Paparazzi-ready with a picture-perfect smile. Crest 3D Whitestrips Intensive Professional Effects whitens as well as a $500 professional treatment.*
- BEAUTY AND THE BEAT. Practice your favorite dance steps so you can show off your moves on Prom night!

The Day of Prom

On Prom day, prepare for your red-carpet moment, from head to toe.

- MAKE A SMOOTH MOVE. ...and not just on the dance floor! Olay Ultra Moisture Body Wash moisturizes to condition even the driest skin for up to 24 hours.
- GET A LEG UP. When rocking the season's hottest trend—a mini-dress—get silky legs with Venus Embrace, a great razor for new shavers.
- THE HEAT IS ON. Prom Queen-worthy locks are a must. Herbal Essences Set Me Up Heat Protection Spray will help protect your hair from those heat styling tools you use to make your hair look fabulous. Just shake to activate and spray!
- PUMP UP THE VOLUME. Get Volume + Length in one stroke with COVERGIRL LashBlast Fusion.
- LOCK DOWN YOUR LOCKS. You'll be dancing the night away, so make sure your hair stays put. Aussie Mega Hairspray gives you locks that move with your mood.

crazy for color!

Electric neons and bold brights are this season's coolest trend! Here's how to make them your new summer classics. by molly ritterbeck

LIME LIDS

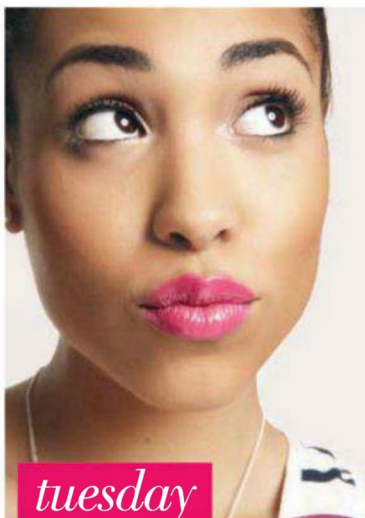

HOW-TO: Kick off the week with a wash of citrus-green shadow! With your finger, apply it along your lids from lashlines to creases, then use a clean eyeshadow brush to blur the edges for a pretty sweep of color.

try: Make Up For Ever Aqua Cream in #23, $22, Sephora stores

SHE says

These bold looks really match my personality, but the rest of my makeup was simple, so I didn't look over-the-top!

-GABBY, 20

HOT PINK POUT

HOW-TO: It's okay to be a loudmouth! Do it with a bright attention-grabbing lip gloss! Swipe on a fuchsia color with tons of shine—the extra juicy finish makes your lips look lusciously plump.

try: Butter London Lipgy Lipgloss in Primrose, $17, butterlondon.com

wednesday

LAVENDER LINER

HOW-TO: When you want to make a subtle statement, a soft purple is just eye-catching enough. Use a jumbo liner to trace along your upper lashlines from inner to outer corners—the thicker tip gives you a perfect one-swipe line.

try: NYX Cosmetics Jumbo Eye Pencil in Oyster, $5, nyxcosmetics.com

thursday

BUBBLEGUM LASHES

HOW-TO: Add a sweet surprise to your wink with a pop of pink! Apply a coat of black mascara, and then use pink mascara from the midlash up to the tips. It will inject a hint of color and give your lashes a cool ombré effect.

try: Hard Candy Lash Call Lengthening Mascara in Hot Pink, $6, Walmart stores

SOFT SCARLET LIPS

HOW-TO: On date night, give off a laid-back vibe with an effortless lip stain. Apply a matte lipstick to your lips, and then try this twist: Take a clean flat brush and feather out the edges.

try: L'Oréal Paris Infallible Le Rouge in Blazing Sangria, $10, drugstores

sunday

BLUE UNDERLINER

HOW-TO: Give your eyes a splash of color by lining just the bottom lashlines with ocean-blue shadow! First swirl a shimmery white eyeshadow in your inner corners to brighten. Next use a damp liner brush dipped in royal blue shadow and trace along lower lids.

try: E.l.f. Studio Pigment Eyeshadow in Breezy Blue, $3, and Essence Cosmetics Mono Eyeshadow in Chill Out, $2, both ULTA stores

ORANGE GLOW

HOW-TO: A terra-cotta shade makes your cheeks stand out in a new way! Apply cream blush to the apples of your cheeks, and then use a sponge to blend it in for a sunny look.

try: NYX Cosmetics Rouge Cream Blush in Orange, $7, nyxcosmetics.com.

ONCE-A-DAY TOPICAL GEL THAT COMBINES TWO OF THE MOST WIDELY PRESCRIBED ACNE MEDICATIONS TO WORK ON THE BREAKOUTS YOU HAVE AND HELP PREVENT NEW ONES. EASY. // YOU COULD PAY NO MORE THAN $35* FOR YOUR EPIDUO® PRESCRIPTION. Go to Epiduo.com to find out how.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION: Epiduo® Gel is indicated for the topical treatment of acne vulgaris in patients 12 years and older. Apply to affected skin once per day, avoiding the eyes, lips and mucous membranes. The most common adverse events associated with use of Epiduo® Gel are redness, scaling, dryness, stinging and burning. In addition, you may also experience contact dermatitis and/or skin irritation. These side effects typically resolve during the first four weeks of treatment, but speak to your doctor if they persist. You should avoid excessive exposure to sunlight and sunlamps while using Epiduo® Gel, and using sunscreen products and protective clothing is recommended. Do not use irritating topical products that contain resorcinol, salicylic acid or sulfur when using Epiduo® Gel. Epiduo® Gel has not been tested in pregnant or nursing women, or with the elderly. Pregnancy Category C.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

EPIDUO™

(adapalene and benzoyl peroxide) Gel 0.1% / 2.5%

For Topical Use Only

Not For Ophthalmic, Oral, or Intravaginal Use.

BRIEF SUMMARY

INDICATIONS AND USAGE

EPIDUO Gel is a combination of adapalene, a retinoid, and benzoyl peroxide, and is indicated for the topical treatment of acne vulgaris in patients 12 years of age and older.

CONTRAINDICATIONS

None.

WARNINGS AND PRECAUTIONS

Ultraviolet Light and Environmental Exposure: Avoid exposure to sunlight and sunlamps. Wear sunscreen when sun exposure cannot be avoided. Erythema, scaling, dryness, and stinging/burning may occur with use of EPIDUO Gel.

ADVERSE REACTIONS

Observed local adverse reactions in patients treated with EPIDUO Gel were erythema, scaling, dryness, stinging, and burning. Other most commonly reported adverse events ($\geq 1\%$) in patients treated with EPIDUO Gel were dry skin, contact dermatitis, application site burning, application site irritation, skin irritation.

DRUG INTERACTIONS

Exercise caution in using preparations containing sulfur, resorcinol, or salicylic acid, medicated or abrasive soaps and cleansers and products with high concentrations of alcohol or astringents in combination with EPIDUO Gel.

Concomitant use of topical products with a strong drying effect can increase irritation. Use with caution.

Pregnancy

Pregnancy Category C. There are no well-controlled trials in pregnant women treated with EPIDUO Gel. Animal reproduction studies have not been conducted with the combination gel or benzoyl peroxide. Furthermore, such studies are not always predictive of human response; therefore, EPIDUO Gel should be used during pregnancy only if the potential benefit justifies the risk to the fetus.

No teratogenic effects were observed in rats treated with oral doses of 0.15 to 5.0 mg adapalene/kg/day, up to 25 times ($\text{mg}/\text{m}^2/\text{day}$) the maximum recommended human dose (MRHD) of 2 grams of EPIDUO Gel. However, teratogenic changes were observed in rats and rabbits when treated with oral doses of ≥ 25 mg adapalene/kg/day representing 123 and 246 times MRHD, respectively. Findings included cleft palate, micropthalmia, encephalocele and skeletal abnormalities in rats; and umbilical hernia, exophthalmos and kidney and skeletal abnormalities in rabbits. Dermal teratology studies conducted in rats and rabbits at doses of 0.6-6.0 mg adapalene/kg/day [25-59 times (mg/m^2) the MRHD] exhibited no fetotoxicity and only minimal increases in supernumerary ribs in both species and delayed ossification in rabbits.

Nursing Mothers

It is not known whether adapalene or benzoyl peroxide is excreted in human milk following use of EPIDUO Gel. Because many drugs are excreted in human milk, caution should be exercised when EPIDUO Gel is administered to a nursing woman.

Pediatric Use

Safety and effectiveness of EPIDUO Gel in pediatric patients under the age of 12 have not been established.

Geriatric Use

Clinical studies of EPIDUO Gel did not include sufficient numbers of subjects aged 65 and over to determine whether they respond differently from younger subjects.

Carcinogenesis, Mutagenesis, Impairment of Fertility

No carcinogenicity, photocarcinogenicity, genotoxicity, or fertility studies were conducted with EPIDUO Gel.

Carcinogenicity studies with adapalene have been conducted in mice at topical doses of 0.4, 1.3, and 4.0 mg/kg/day (1.2, 3.9, and 12 $\text{mg}/\text{m}^2/\text{day}$), and in rats at oral doses of 0.15, 0.5, and 1.5 mg/kg/day (0.9, 3.0, and 9.0 $\text{mg}/\text{m}^2/\text{day}$). In terms of body surface area, the highest dose levels are 9.8 (mice) and 7.4 times (rats) the MRHD of 2 grams of EPIDUO Gel. In the rat study, an increased incidence of benign and malignant pheochromocytomas in the adrenal medulla of male rats was observed.

No significant increase in tumor formation was observed in rodents topically treated with 15-25% benzoyl peroxide carbopol gel (6-10 times the concentration of benzoyl peroxide in EPIDUO Gel) for two years. Rats received maximum daily applications of 138 (males) and 205 (females) mg benzoyl peroxide/kg. In terms of body surface area, these levels are 27-40 times the MRHD. Similar results were obtained in mice topically treated with 25% benzoyl peroxide carbopol gel for 56 weeks followed by intermittent treatment with 15% benzoyl peroxide carbopol gel for rest of the 2 years study period, and in mice topically treated with 5% benzoyl peroxide carbopol gel for two years.

The role of benzoyl peroxide as a tumor promoter has been well established in several animal species. However, the significance of this finding in humans is unknown.

In a photocarcinogenicity study conducted with 5% benzoyl peroxide carbopol gel, no increase in UV-induced tumor formation was observed in hairless mice topically treated for 40 weeks.

No photocarcinogenicity studies were conducted with adapalene. However, animal studies have shown an increased tumorigenic risk with the use of pharmacologically similar drugs (e.g., retinoids) when exposed to UV irradiation in the laboratory or sunlight. Although the significance of these findings to humans is not clear, patients should be advised to avoid or minimize exposure to either sunlight or artificial irradiation sources.

Adapalene did not exhibit mutagenic or genotoxic effects in vitro (Ames test, Chinese hamster ovary cell assay, mouse lymphoma TK assay) or in vivo (mouse micronucleus test).

Bacterial mutagenicity assays (Ames test) with benzoyl peroxide has provided mixed results, mutagenic potential was observed in a few but not in a majority of investigations. Benzoyl peroxide has been shown to produce single-strand DNA breaks in human bronchial epithelial and mouse epidermal cells, it has caused DNA-protein cross-links in the human cells, and has also induced a dose-dependent increase in sister chromatid exchanges in Chinese hamster ovary cells.

In rat oral studies, 20 mg adapalene/kg/day (120 $\text{mg}/\text{m}^2/\text{day}$; 98 times the MRHD based on $\text{mg}/\text{m}^2/\text{day}$ comparison) did not affect the reproductive performance and fertility of F_0 males and females, or growth, development and reproductive function of F_1 offspring.

No fertility studies were conducted with benzoyl peroxide.

PATIENT COUNSELING INFORMATION

- Advise patients to cleanse the area to be treated with a mild or soapless cleanser; pat dry. Apply EPIDUO Gel as a thin layer, avoiding the eyes, lips and mucous membranes.
- Advise patients not to use more than the recommended amount and not to apply more than once daily as this will not produce faster results, but may increase irritation.
- EPIDUO Gel may cause irritation such as erythema, scaling, dryness, stinging or burning.
- Advise patients to minimize exposure to sunlight, including sunlamps. Recommend the use of sunscreen products and protective apparel, (e.g., hat) when exposure cannot be avoided.
- EPIDUO Gel may bleach hair and colored fabric.

TIP:

If this feels too easy, keep your legs straight throughout. It will target your lower abs!

a Sit on a chair with arms bent at 90°. Raise them up until elbows are at shoulder height.

b Lift right leg and twist at the waist to bring left elbow to meet right knee. Return to start, then repeat on other side. That's one rep. Do 3 sets of 15.

TIP:

Don't use your arms to pull yourself up. Your abs should be doing all of the work!

b Lift your head, neck, and shoulders off the ground as you climb up your leg, one hand after the other. Get as close to your foot as you can, then climb back down. That's one rep. Do 3 sets of 10 on each side.

WHITTLE YOUR WAIST!

TIP:

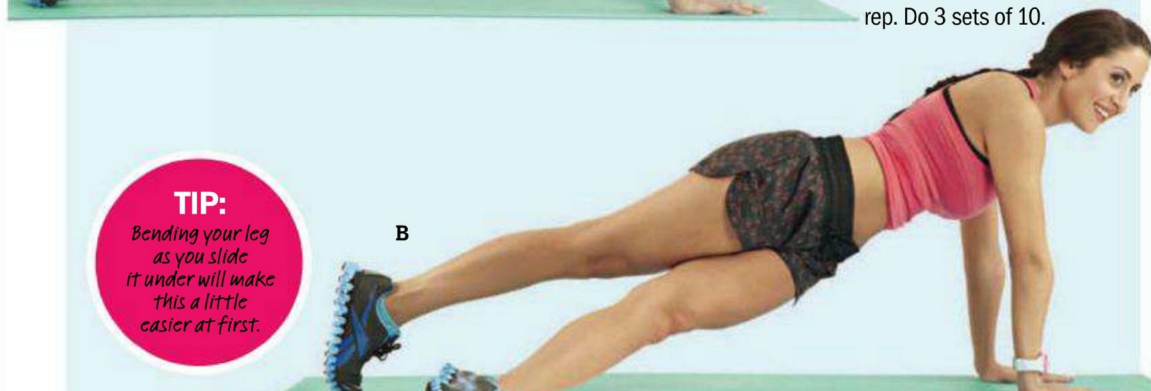

To define your waist, don't twist! Keep your hips and shoulders facing straight ahead.

a Start in a push-up position: arms extended, hands under shoulders, and body in a straight line from head to feet.

b Squeeze abs and slide left leg under body as you twist slightly to the right. Return to start, then repeat on other side. That's one rep. Do 3 sets of 10.

TIP:

Bending your leg as you slide it under will make this a little easier at first.

get total bikini confidence!

With these little tricks, you'll feel better about your body—and own the beach!

As a surfer, I spend 90 percent of my time in a bikini, and I think I first felt self-conscious about it at age 12, which was (not coincidentally) when I started comparing myself to my friends. They were tiny, and I'm built bigger—my shoulders are wide and my legs are muscular. I'd stand in front of my mirror, pinching all the "extra" skin on my body. I would have given anything to be leaner or more petite! Two years ago, though, I felt a shift. I had just graduated from high school and was finally living my dreams by competing on the world surfing tour. And that's when, one day, it clicked—I wouldn't be there without those strong shoulders and muscular legs! I'm not saying I feel 100 percent secure every time I put on my bikini now—we all have our days. But instead of obsessing in front of the mirror, I tell myself this: My body is a machine, and if I treat it right, I can do amazing things. Then I grab my surfboard and go! So steal my motto, or try these little tips below, to find your own bikini peace this summer.

—xo, Carissa

SHOW US YOUR BIKINI PEACE!

Draw a peace sign on the part of your bod you love most (like these friends at Indiana University did!), then Tweet a pic @seventeenmag, tagged #17BodyPeace, to be added to the flipbook at seventeen.com/bikinipeace!

practice the 1-minute rule

If you lose your cover-up within the first minute, you won't have time to obsess. So when you get to the beach or pool, rip it off like you'd rip off a Band-Aid—super-fast without even looking!

rock a fearless suit

Try bright red, crazy

mismatched prints, or a totally cool retro one-piece—emphasizing your personal style takes the focus off your shape. And even if it feels like a major fashion dare, think about it this way: When your suit says confidence, that courage will rub off on you!

don't "suck it in"

Worst. Advice. Ever. Sucking it in can mess with your posture and draw more attention to you—whereas breathing and being natural makes you look comfortable in your own skin! (Pssst: Having a bikini-peace mantra that reminds you to check your posture and attitude every once in a while helps too, like: Chin up, shoulders back, be fierce!)

bring the volleyball

Then go around recruiting your friends for a game! Nothing is hotter than being the girl who gets the fun started, plus a little exercise will make you feel strong and sexy.

major hookup moments

It's easy to get swept up in a steamy makeout. But knowing what to expect will help you stay in control. by amber madison

it's all happening

During a hookup, your heart beats faster, each touch feels amazing—and every decision matters.

THE MOMENT:

you get each other alone

WHAT'S REALLY HAPPENING:

Finally, his parents are gone! You're excited, nervous . . . and before you know it, legit making out.

DO WHAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU:

This is the time (before things get too heated) to talk about your boundaries. Stop kissing him for just long enough to say: "I love making out with you, but I definitely don't want things to go any further than _____ tonight."

When you're both on the same page from the beginning, you can relax and have fun.

THE MOMENT:

you lose your clothes

WHAT'S REALLY HAPPENING:

You've decided to take off your shirt, but not your pants. Now he's undoing them. . . .

DO WHAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU:

You may want to test your boundaries in the heat of the moment, but since clothes are such a physical boundary, lying naked with a guy can feel like the point of no return. To take the pressure off, be clear, and tell him this is as far as you want to go. And if you feel like the pressure might be too much, kiss him one last time—and then leave. Remember, you never owe a guy sex—even if your clothes are off, or you think he expects it, or you've done it before.

GETTING HOTTER

THE MOMENT:

you're seriously making out

WHAT'S REALLY HAPPENING:

Your hands are moving all over each other and kissing feels electric . . . but there's that nagging fear about where his hands will go next.

DO WHAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU:

If you're worried about things escalating too fast, hit pause! Say you want to slow down and talk for a bit, or—if you aren't feeling that brave—tell him that you need to use the bathroom. Either way, a quick time-out will help you clear your head and figure out if you're really ready for the next step.

THE MOMENT:

you decide to have sex

WHAT'S REALLY HAPPENING:

You're hooking up with your BF. He looks you in the eyes, and for the first time, you know you're ready.

DO WHAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU:

That instant of emotional clarity can be so powerful—you love this guy, he loves you, and after lots of talking about sex and planning (with birth control pills and condoms), you're sure you want to do it. But if there's even an ounce of doubt—wait. Because if this is really the best decision for you, putting it off an hour (or a day, or two weeks) will matter a lot less than "just getting it over with."

CRUMBLE LINES!

Sometimes a guy might say things midhookup that test your limits. Be prepared!

HE SAYS:

"Don't you trust me?"

YOU SAY:

"Of course. You're a great guy—but that doesn't mean I'm ready."

HE SAYS:

"C'mon. You've already let me go so far!"

YOU SAY:

"Which has been awesome—but it won't stay fun if I'm feeling totally uncomfortable."

HE SAYS:

"It's not a big deal."

YOU SAY:

"It is for me. And I really hope you take this stuff seriously, too."

START HERE

The details of your last big fight aren't hazy at all. You still remember exactly why you were mad.

YES

You always seem to fight about the same stuff. The big issues (like jealousy) don't ever go away.

YES

You obsess about arguments for days afterward. You just can't get over it!

YES

During an argument you try to stay calm, but everything he does is so annoying that you just explode!

YES

GET OVER IT!

The occasional fight with your guy is normal. But holding a grudge and rehashing old arguments just keeps you stuck in a drama zone. Next time, tell him what's bothering you, find a way to fix it, and then drop it. If you're hanging on to old wounds, you'll never move forward.

You have a hard time calling your guy out on stuff—you don't want to start an even bigger fight.

YES

You apologize for things that aren't your fault ("Sorry this movie sucks!") because you feel bad.

YES

If your guy does something that bugs you just a little, it's not worth starting a huge fight.

YES

When you're mad, you drop hints (like giving him the silent treatment) to send the signal.

YES

SPEAK UP!

You'd do anything to avoid a fight. But when you bottle up your emotions, they leak out in passive-aggressive ways (like bitchy one-word texts). When your guy ticks you off, tell him why. Squashing problems as they happen keeps them from spiraling into an even bigger deal.

You think a little drama in a relationship is a good thing. It's a sign of passion!

YES

When you know you're right, you don't back down. Your guy should be the one to say sorry.

YES

You're not afraid to push buttons—you know the one thing that drives your guy crazy, and you use it.

YES

The instant your guy ticks you off, you confront him—even if you're at school or a party.

BACK OFF!

You're not afraid to hit your guy where it hurts—like comparing him to your ex. But when you care more about winning than your relationship, no dude will stick around. Take a time-out to decide what you really want (an apology? a chance to vent?) besides just coming out on top.

“i was a teen bride”

After a fairy-tale romance, Maegan got married at 18—and learned that happily ever after is harder than it seems. as told to elisa benson

I walked down the aisle on my wedding day and saw my future husband, Jake, looking at me with a huge smile, when a random thought hit me: This was the first time I'd seen him in his military uniform. We'd been dating for only six months, after all.

Jake and I grew up attending the same church in Taylor, Michigan. He is three years older than I am, so we'd never really talked—until a youth group trip to an amusement park at the start of my senior year. After that, we started texting until 2 A.M. and hanging out nonstop. Then Jake told me he was leaving for basic training in Texas that January. When he left, I felt a giant hole in my heart. I felt so alone, until a handwritten letter arrived: Jake said that even though we were miles apart, he would never give up on us. I could hear his voice in my head when I read it, and I felt alive again. We wrote long letters back and forth, in between calls and video chats whenever Jake had access. The distance forced us to focus on the connection we had, not on how much we were missing out on by being apart—and that brought us even closer. I started thinking that the only way we could be together is if I lived on-base . . . as his wife. I had already been accepted to college, but I could go somewhere near Jake, I thought.

In April, Jake flew me to San Antonio for a visit. I was so convinced he was going to propose that when he got in the shower, I peeked in his backpack—and he walked in right as I found a small black box! Without a word, I jumped into his arms and said, “Yes!” I didn't care about having a big proposal. I just cared about having him.

“Marriage has tested my relationship, but it has also taught me what it means to love.”

After I got home, I had lunch with Jake's family—it was awkward, because I'd never spent time alone with them. They kept asking whether we were sure—but if they thought it was a bad idea, they didn't say it to my face, and neither did my parents. I was too blinded by love to hear it anyway. The last few months of school were a blur of wedding planning, prom, and graduation, but I never thought about putting on the brakes. I knew I wanted to marry Jake, so why wait? On our wedding day, I felt happy and secure.

A few weeks later, we moved to North Dakota, where Jake was stationed. He was working all the time, so I'd spend the day by myself—I felt so isolated. I decided to enroll in online college classes, but with us living off Jake's salary alone, our money disappeared. The stress led to fights about stupid things, like whose turn it was to cook or do laundry. One time, I freaked out when Jake came home with Oreos and a bag of chips—that extra 10 dollars makes a difference! When I vented to another military girlfriend about how hard things were, she snapped, “That's why you shouldn't rush into marriage!” For the first time, I doubted myself. Was she right? When I see my friends posting Facebook pictures from college, I can't help thinking: How would my life have been different? I'll never know what it's like to have a roommate or live in a dorm.

As many low points as I've gone through, I don't regret getting married. Marriage has tested my relationship in ways I didn't expect, but it has also taught me what it means to love—to be there for someone when they're driving you crazy and to work through problems together. Jake and I don't have all the answers, but we have our whole lives to figure it out. 17

paralyzed by a drunk driver!”

Chelsie, 20, and her friends thought nothing could hurt them. But after a dangerous crash, her whole life turned upside down. as told to ashley mateo

It was 2 A.M. on a cold Saturday, and a bunch of us were crammed in my friend's car. Aaron was driving and we were rapping along to someone's iPod on the way home from a small party, where my best friend and I had spent the whole night gossiping about guys and dancing to hip-hop. I love to dance—four months earlier, I'd won a regional dance competition and qualified for Nationals. I'd had a few beers but I wasn't drunk. As the party wound down, Aaron announced he was heading out, and a bunch of us jumped in the car. I'd seen him drinking during the night, but I trusted him—I didn't think he'd be driving if he was really drunk.

On the way to my house, Aaron was driving a little fast and veered off the road a couple times. We laughed it off, but I was glad I had my seat belt on. All of a sudden, Aaron took a sharp turn, swerved, then hit a curb. Before I had time to think, he jerked the car in the opposite direction. Things quickly went from fun to terrifying. A jolt of panic shot through my body as we headed straight for a tree! I heard a boom and the car shook as we smashed into it. I didn't even have time to scream.

The next few minutes felt like a dream. I was weirdly calm. I didn't even cry. My seat belt was still on, but my legs were stuck under the driver's seat and my body was over the center console. I could hear EMTs talking and a helicopter landing to airlift us to the hospital—but everything felt foggy. Then I blacked out.

a new reality

The first time I woke up, my dad was standing over me looking scared. I didn't want him to worry, so I said, "Daddy, I'll be okay. I just can't feel my legs." I must have passed out again, because the next time I opened my eyes, I was in an MRI machine. My eye was swollen shut, so I couldn't see. I hit the top with my fists, thinking I was in a coffin.

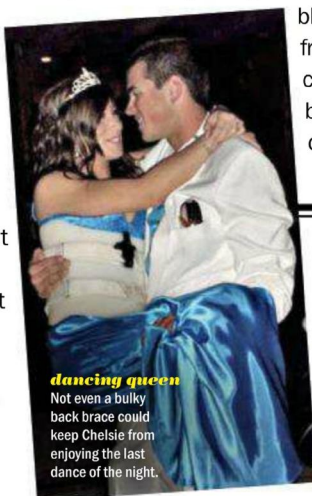

The next week was a haze of surgeries and drugs. Then, the doctor matter-of-factly told me I'd never walk and, even worse, dance again. I couldn't process it—how was I going to live without dancing?!! I was in the hospital for almost two months and had three operations—on my back, my stomach, and my broken pinkie. The seat belt severed the nerves and muscles at my waist.

“A jolt of panic shot through my body as we headed straight for a tree!”

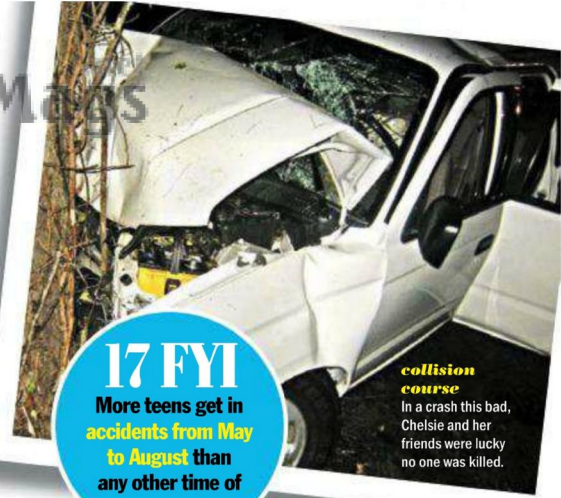

When I got home, I was still in complete denial. I'd open the door to step out of the car and then remember I'm stuck in this chair. Once, I totally broke down, throwing pillows and hitting my legs. I'd bottled up all this anger and frustration toward my injury, and I couldn't put on a brave face anymore. I was so fed up with my body.

But the idea of going back to school was exciting—I just wanted to get back some sense of normalcy—though I was really self-conscious about how people would react to my wheelchair. People kept offering to carry my books or grab stuff I couldn't reach, but that made me feel worse, like a burden. Prom was especially hard. I'd always pictured myself dancing all night and having a blast with my friends. It couldn't have been more different.

dancing queen
Not even a bulky back brace could keep Chelsie from enjoying the last dance of the night.

collision course

In a crash this bad, Chelsie and her friends were lucky no one was killed.

Watching from my chair while my friends were out on the dance floor made me feel less than everyone else. But during the last song, my date picked me up in his arms and we danced together. In that moment, I didn't feel different. I was just me again.

moving forward

It's been two years and I'm completely independent now, although I don't know if I'll ever accept the fact that I won't walk again. Aaron, the driver, went to prison for what he did. [He was sentenced to more than seven years in prison for drunk driving.] But I don't blame him. I take responsibility for getting in the car with him, and I want to make sure this doesn't happen to anyone else. I've been touring schools, speaking to more than 10,000 people about what happened to me. It's given me a purpose. If I have to live the rest of my life with this wheelchair as a reminder of one bad decision, it's a decision I don't want anyone else to make. 17

WHY IT MATTERS TO ME

"I'm a huge animal lover, and it makes me so sad to see homeless animals suffering. Since animals can't speak up for themselves, it's our job to be protect them. That's why I've been supporting People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) for the past four years. It all started with me simply going to peta.org and writing in the comment box that I wanted to help. The next day, PETA contacted me with a list of campaigns I could join! There are so many ways to help. You can use your Facebook and Twitter accounts to encourage people to bring strays to animal shelters, where they'll be cared for properly. Or you can adopt them, like I did!"

make it YOUR mission

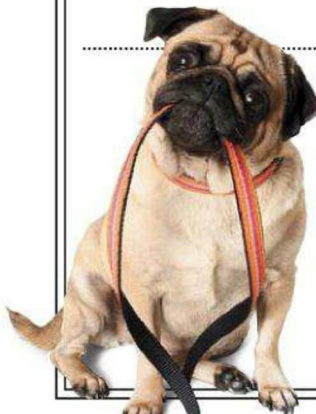

Adopt, don't buy!

Millions of abandoned animals are euthanized each year because they can't find a home. If you're looking for a kitten or puppy, visit your local animal shelter before shopping at a pet store or buying from a breeder. Believe it or not, you can often find purebred animals there!

Join the Street Team!

Whether you want to add your name to a petition or hand out pamphlets at school, join the Street Team at peta2.com, the largest youth animal-rights group, where you can trade ideas with thousands of other members. The more you help, the more points you can earn—and redeem for cool merch, like T-shirts!

Volunteer at your local shelter!

In addition to playing with the animals, you can raise awareness by organizing fund-raising events and donation drives for supplies like leashes and food bowls.

—CAMILLE, 17

YES!

“There's still so much gossip about who hooked up with the guy who's taken, or who picked a fight with her friends. The difference is that I'm over it. Catty girls exist everywhere, but if you stop paying so much attention, you can have a fresh start.”

—berkley (and friends), UNIVERSITY OF MARY WASHINGTON

Will I be the only one who's still a virgin?

—KELL, 18

NO!

“I was worried my new friends would judge me for being a virgin, because I thought I was the only one. But when it finally came out, my friends—guys and girls—were impressed. Once I stopped hiding it, I started meeting a bunch of other girls who are virgins, too. justin BIEBER

THE MAKING OF
"Believe"

JUSTIN

On the cusp of releasing his new album, JB is working harder than ever—connecting with his fans, developing his sound, and proving he’s not just a cute kid anymore.

You can hear Justin Bieber coming long before you see him. That’s because he doesn’t just walk up the steps to the second-floor music studio where he’s been recording his new album: He sings the whole way. And trust us—his voice is just as strong without all the music production. Unplugged, he sounds soulful and real.

When Justin finally appears, he’s in a black T-shirt and jeans with a checkered Louis Vuitton belt holding his pants up against his gray American Apparel briefs. He’s wearing an orange Philadelphia Flyers hat that’s sideways on those famously sideswept bangs, and he has matching orange soles on his black Supras. He’s also wearing a large gold Jesus pendant around his neck. “My boy, Jesus,” he says, patting it and pronouncing the name with a Spanish accent.

After only a few minutes of talking to him, you realize there are two Biebers. When he’s off the clock, he’s just a normal teenager who was raised in Stratford, Ontario, Canada, by his single mom, Pattie. This Justin likes to eat Ritz bits peanut butter snack crackers and watch YouTube videos. “I don’t think I do anything that’s starlike,” he says shrugging, as he waits for his turkey dinner to be delivered from Boston Market. Throughout the conversation, the 18-year-old can barely sit still—“Concentrate!” his manager Scooter yells at him as Justin gets up to hunt in the fridge, checks his iPhone for texts, fumbles with his hat, and shakes out his bangs. He’s more than happy to talk about his favorite TV show moment (it’s a scene from Family Guy) and his music (he even sings some of his answers), but when it comes to talking about himself—or his girlfriend over a year, actress Selena Gomez—he seems humble and a little uncomfortable. “I’m super-guarded,” he says.

But when the mic gets turned on, a different Justin comes alive. It’s his business side that’s self-aware and well-spoken, as he contemplates his professional future and finishes up his new album, Believe. “We’ve been in the studio every night creating songs based off my melodies and ideas,” he says. “I’m locked into my zone and focused.” Justin has plans for total world domination, and that drive has earned him over 18 million Twitter followers and helped him sell 14 million albums. He’s recently been in the studio collaborating with the major talents he used to dream about working with, like Will.i.am, Drake, and Kanye West.

After an afternoon hanging out with Seventeen at the studio, Justin finally let his guard down—and revealed all the secrets about his life he’s worked so hard to protect.

17: Everyone is so interested in your personal life, especially your relationship with Selena. A lot of your fans don’t approve. . . .

Justin Bieber: Everyone has haters, so you always just have to deal with the negativity and be positive about it. I don’t think it’s nice; I’d rather they be nice, but at the end of the day, I don’t let it affect me.

17: You’ve famously planned some amazing dates for Selena—who taught you to be so romantic?

JB: I’m just trying to make her happy, that’s all. I think it’s important to make all women feel like they’re princesses, because every girl is a princess. I’m serious.

17: Will.i.am said he thinks it’s important for people to experience heartbreak so they’ll have something to sing about. What do you think?

JB: I haven’t gone through it, so I don’t really know what it’s about. I don’t think anyone wants to have heartbreak. I haven’t been in that deep a place yet, but I’m still looking. I’m still learning every day.

17: Would you and Selena ever record music together?

JB: Yeah. I love her music, so maybe we could collaborate.

17: There must be so many people wanting to be around you now—how do you know who your real friends are?

JB: I don’t let anybody close to me. I just rock with my old friends, Ryan and Chaz. I’m happy with the friends that I have.

17: You bought your friend Ryan a car for Christmas. What inspired that?

JB: Ryan’s been my best friend since I was really little. He just got his license and he didn’t have a car to drive. He can drive his parents’ car sometimes, but they’re at work when he’s at school, so I got him a Mustang convertible so he can be rocking it out at school.

17: Do you ever feel guilty at all about your success compared to what your friends have?

JB: No, never. And it makes them cool that they never make me feel like that. They’re proud of me. They never get jealous; they’re happy for me.

17: Let’s talk about your hair—you’ve been changing it up a lot lately. Is there a reason for switching it up?

JB: No, I just wanna be able to rock anything and not really care—whether it’s long or short, buzzed, or waxed over. I’m not just going to be known for my hair.

17: How is this new album different for you?

JB: I just want to grow my audience and have more people listen to my music who might not have listened to it before, so that’s kind of my goal. But I still want people who were listening to my last album to listen to this one. You never want to lose fans; you just want to gain fans.

17: That’s good math.

JB: A lot of times, when artists grow older, they lose their younger fans because they’re just trying to get older fans. But if you try to make good music, then you’ll just appease everybody. I just want to make music that’s good for everybody.

et an invitation to hang out at Chloë Grace Moretz's house on a Friday night, and it would definitely include a Keeping Up With the Kardashians marathon, tons of Instagramming, and a massive Call of Duty battle. Not exactly what you'd expect from one of today's hottest new stars, normally seen rocking major designers on Hollywood red carpets. But Chloë likes to be a bit of an iconoclast. "There's definitely Chloë who's an actress, and then there's Chloë who's with her friends," she reveals. "When I'm on the carpet, I'm more demure. I'm not in my pajamas, I'm in heels and a couture dress."

Chloë made a name for herself when she stunned people in Kick-Ass for playing an 11-year-old potty-mouthed vigilante. Then she got to work with legendary director Martin Scorsese on Hugo. And on May 11, she goes goth in the campy horror movie Dark Shadows with Johnny Depp. Although her career is exploding, she's very specific about the kinds of films she wants to do. "I like to do movies that are sweet and soft, but at the same time they have an edge and are hard," she says.

Chloë works equally hard to keep her Hollywood life and her real-girl life as separate as possible. Like most girls, she's seen The Notebook hundreds of times ("I love Ryan Gosling—he is just revolutionary and beautiful, and Rachel McAdams is my girl crush," she says), knows exactly what her dream wedding will be like ("I'm down for a country wedding with a banjo and all—I'll have Taylor Swift perform!"), and gets grounded for talking on her cell phone too much. Her one secret vice: video games. "I just love them," she admits. "I probably play video games more than any guy does! I have four older brothers."

But to Chloë, succeeding at school is as important as winning a video game—or a coveted movie role. When she is not at work, she's being homeschooled. "I was taught that whatever you want to do, always put school first," she says. Although she is currently living in Los Angeles, she plans to go to Columbia University when she graduates from high school. "I'm so competitive and driven that I know I'm going to get in because I want to," she says. Just before running out the door to a photo shoot, Chloë grabbed some elusive free time to talk to Seventeen and spill the secrets of being successful while staying true to herself.

17: Do you remember the moment you knew you wanted to be an actress?

Chloë Grace Moretz: When I was 5 or 6, I used to watch my brother Trevor, who was at the Professional Performing Arts High School in New York at the time, studying his monologues every day. Over and over, and he would just repeat them and repeat them and repeat them. And I always soaked up everything. I would watch him and [the monologues] would go into my mind on repeat. I would start saying them to all of my friends, my teachers, my mom, and my family. Eventually I bugged my family enough about wanting to [act], and then I booked my first job.

17: You just got to work with Blake Lively on the film Hick. Were you close?

CM: I admire everything about her! I slept over her house a couple of times—she's like a sister to me. She'd be cooking until 4 A.M. She's an amazing cook! One time when we were on set, she just leaned over to me and said, "Oh, my god, Martha Stewart just e-mailed me her recipe!" and I'm like, "Oh, shut up!"

17: That's so funny! Like you, Blake is also known for amazing style. Did you get to check out her closet?

CM: She wears the most amazing clothes every day of her life. I went into her closet one night when she was trying things on for an event, and she was getting dressed, and I was helping her choose what dress to wear. She had brought probably a hundred pairs of Louboutins, and she was like, Try these on, try those on. We basically had a little shoe party!

I'm an actress when I'm on the red carpet,
then I'm a 15-year-old freshman when I'm with my friends.

17: What's your most prized fashion possession?

CM: I always wanted a Chanel purse. And I went to this Chanel event, and the woman there said something like, "I think we can arrange that." The next thing I know, my stylist came over with a big box that had this giant bow that said Chanel on it. It was a huge, historical moment in my life.

17: Couldn't you just have gone out and bought one?

CM: No, no, no! My mom would never allow me.

17: Do you let your friends raid your awesome wardrobe?

CM: I dress a little bit darker than my friends, in a way. I wear all black and grays, and they're into brighter, lighter, softer colors. I'd rather be dark and twisted than light and frilly.

17: What makes a good friend?

CM: I think it's someone who no matter what is there for you in any way, shape, or form. My best friend, Mia, and I have been through everything together. I can always meet a person and immediately tell whether or not they like me for me or for me as an actress.

17: Have you been disappointed with anyone you let into your life who liked you for the wrong reasons?

CM: I've met a couple of people who are so fun for like a month, and then they get weird! And you're like, Oh, god, here we go! We've got a freak-a-leak. They start asking me if they can go to a premiere with me. And I'm like, Really? You're gonna ask me that right now? Ugh.

17: Do you go out a lot on dates?

CM: Well, no. I had a lot of friends and guys who I think are cute and stuff, but it doesn't really work out with the family and all. My family's a bit too big and a bit too abrasive. I have four older brothers, and my mom is not really down with it.

17: It seems like your mom can be a little strict. When was the last time you got grounded?

CM: I just got my phone back yesterday. My mom had it for like two days. I was supposed to read a book and I really wanted play Call of Duty. It's not like I want to go read the hot story in Cosmo and get locked up! No, I get caught playing video games.

17: You seem super-competitive when it comes to your video games! How else do you describe yourself?

CM: Fun-loving. I'm a complete nerd. And I just think I'm ridiculously random. I was on video chat with my best friend yesterday, and I just broke out in a song about ramen noodles—I was just singing this ramen noodle song that turned into this dubstep song. I was like, "Drop the bass," and I started doing all these weird bass noises. I don't know what happens in my life anymore. You could definitely say I'm weird.

17: You're also really into music. What are you listening to right now?

CM: I recently added Lana Del Rey, which everyone will hate on me for; Bon Iver; Friendly Fires; jj; and Florence + the Machine.

But then I have Drake, Jay-Z, Skrillex, Rosco, The Vaccines, Mac Miller, Grynch—he's a rapper.

And then I have all of this Whitney Houston and more Skrillex and Wolf Gang. I don't even know how to explain what I listen to.

17: Is there a song that you listen to when you are bummed out?

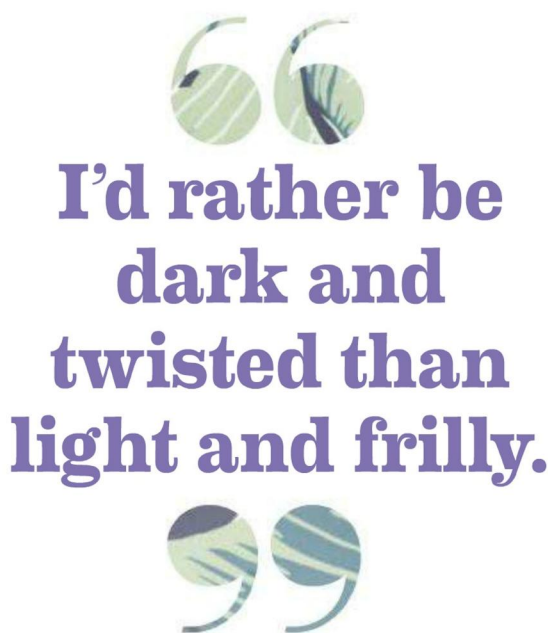

CM: Yeah, when I get upset, it's usually Bon Iver's "Skinny Love." Also City and Colour's "The Girl."

17: You have described your family as very religious. Is your faith important to you?

CM: Definitely. But I think religion is really knowing and believing it in your heart and your soul. The only reason I'm here doing this is because I'm blessed enough to have a talent and have a family who's supportive and gracious enough to allow me to do it.

17: You say the girl we see on the red carpet is not the same girl who hangs with her friends. How do you separate the two?

CM: The most I get into "Hollywood" is just going to an event. My friends are not actors. They're just normal everyday girls. When I'm with my friends, that's personal—that's my life. When I'm on the carpet, I'm an actress. But I always try and be myself.

I'd rather be dark and twisted than light and frilly.

Get sun-kissed the safe way! Use self-tanner all over, and when you peel away cute heart tattoos, it's like showing your body extra love!

I used to go to the tanning beds almost daily because I thought the more tan I was, the prettier I would look. Then I had a melanoma removed from my chest in 2009. I no longer felt pretty; I did everything I could to hide my scar under clothes. But after a heart-to-heart chat with my mom, she helped me see that imperfections are what make me beautiful and unique. I also realized that I could still get a bronzy glow—it just has to be faux!

my Beautiful Scar

Most girls just want to cover up their scars. But for these readers, they're a badge of their triumph over skin cancer. Melanoma affects 2,600 teens and young adults every year—so let these three incredible stories inspire you, and let these pretty new products keep you protected.

I always felt as if I looked different from everyone else—my beyond-pale skin and red hair made me feel awkward! I thought that if I went tanning, I would fit in better. It took only two summers of going to a tanning salon for me to develop melanoma. The two-inch scar along my hairline reminds me that my sensitive skin needs major protection. Every single spot on my body—even my scalp!—needs to be guarded from UV rays. Now I do a lot of volunteer work for the Melanoma Research Foundation. Fitting in shouldn't mean risking my health—and I want to stop people from making the same mistakes.

sneaky SPF:

Areas like your hairline and scalp can be more susceptible to cancer because most people forget to protect them from the sun. Part your hair and coat your scalp with SPF 30, then get extra protection with a UV protectant hairspray.

safe shimmer:

Make your skin glisten while giving it a layer of protection—slick a pearl-flecked body oil over your usual SPF.

Growing up, I spent a lot of time outdoors. I played softball, hung out at the pond in the summers, and I hit the tanning beds for homecoming and during vacations. The truth is, I tanned because all my friends were doing it. But getting melanoma is horrific and scary—protecting my skin is now part of my beauty routine. For me, my scar symbolizes success, and I'm proud for people to see it. That's why I got my tattoo right above my scar. The black ribbon symbolizes the melanoma ribbon, and believe is a word I live by.

64% of you are freaked out about finding a job
this summer.

SOURCE: SEVENTEEN.COM POLL

Never beg a twenty off your parents again! With this job guide, you can turbocharge your savings and still have time to veg out on The Vampire Diaries reruns. BY KATY MCCOLL

When you picture the perfect summer, you have endless days to focus on all of the stuff you love to do—work on sketches for your future fashion line, hit the front row of every good concert in town, soak up the sun anywhere and everywhere. Reality check: You end up spending most of your time in the windowless depths of the mall at a boooring job that's not getting you anywhere. What if, instead, you immersed yourself in something you actually care about while earning enough cash to see you through the rest of the year? Here's how to score gigs that let you do what you're passionate about—from girls who have paved the way.

sweet gig

Skip stuffing tacos at the food court! With a food truck, you get to be in fun new places every day. Go to roaminghunger.com to find real-time locations of trucks near you, then show up during nonpeak hours to sell them on your skills. If you're going to be helping hungry people, you'll need patience and a sweet smile, so play that up!

if you love
fashion

Thanks to shows like Project Runway, more and more people want to be designers, so fashion camps are popping up everywhere: Houston, TX (fashioncamphouston.com); Orange County, CA (fashioncampoc.com); the Pacific Northwest (fashiondesigncamp.com); Louisville, KY, and Reno, NV (thesummitonline.com); and New York (campfashiondesign.com). You don't need major fashion experience to work there—just passion! They all hire summer staff to help kids learn things like design, sewing, cutting patterns, and styling photo shoots.

howtogetit: Write an e-mail saying how great you are with kids and how obsessed you are with fashion. When you snag that interview, show off your own sense of style. No corporate pantsuits! Even better? Wear a piece you designed yourself.

cool new job opps!

Do something fun this summer that will give you skills and bragging rights for the future.

if you love
the outdoors

Work (and live!) in a national park or on a dude ranch, or take a job at a river-rafting company. Find opportunities, from trail guides to customer service, on coolworks.com (or coolworks.com/teen-jobs if you're under 18). You can spend your days off hiking, canoeing, and horseback riding in the country's most gorgeous spots.

howtogetit: Cranky tourists are no match for your sunny personality! Being a team player is key because you're living where you're working. And don't be afraid to mention how you love to rough it!

animals

Get paid to spend your days with the cutest spaniels, Labs, and mutts, bathing, feeding, and sometimes just snuggling them in doggie day care! Apply to local franchises like Camp Bow Wow (over 150 locations in 39 states) or Central Bark Doggy Day Care (25 locations in 6 states).

howtogetit: Because the day cares want to ensure that every pup gets plenty of attention, express your love for all pooches—big, little, scruffy, shy—and not just a particular type.

the crazy way i got the gig!

In a tough job market, it pays to get creative. Meet three girls who found sneaky ways to stand out.

BAKER

“I'm an amazing baker, and I had only three months to raise $4,500 for a school trip to Italy. So I passed out flyers in the halls at school and got orders for things like cake pop arrangements.

I raised all the money in just three months!”

—HALEY, 18, KENNESAW, GA

CONCERT PROMOTER

“My sister was the assistant to a promoter, so I helped her out—taking tickets and setting up dressing rooms. I just started doing the work for free—to learn about the industry. But when she quit, the job officially became mine.”

—ALICIA, 22, AMHERST, NY

SHOP GIRL

“I answered a Craigslist ad for a job at a Lacoste boutique. I had no retail experience, but I talked about the experience I did have. I've worked with all kinds of people as a waitress, especially mean customers. I got the gig—and became the youngest person in the Lacoste hall of fame, with $250,000 in sales.”

BUZZ

FOCUS ON EXCELLENCE

Marlo Adelle, 20, started her own accessories company (MarloAdelle.com) when she was 14 and now makes up to $2,000 a month selling her gorgeous feather hair fascinators on Etsy and in local boutiques.

HER BEST ADVICE:

"You have to be open to constructive criticism. In the beginning, one high-end shop owner told me my items looked sloppy. I was humiliated, but my dad said, 'Make 'em better and take them back!' I did—and got the order!"

PLAY TO YOUR STRENGTHS

Alexis, 21, loved her college public-relations classes, so she started The Dream Agency (dreampragency.com) last January while still in school. She combined her best skills and created a "one-stop-shop" PR service (Web design, press releases, and social media). After only a month, she landed 4 clients and had a waiting list of 15 more!

HER BEST ADVICE:

"Use the networks you already have in place. I posted about my business on Facebook and word spread as friends told friends of friends."

FILL A NEED

When a routine salon treatment burned her scalp and made her hair fall out, 20-year-old Jasmine vowed to save other girls from the same humiliation. So she created the natural hair care line EDEN

BodyWorks (edenbodyworks.com) after taking classes with the Network for Teaching Entrepreneurship (NFTE). Once she learned how to develop a business plan, she put it into action and has made more than $100,000 a year!

HER BEST ADVICE:

"Develop a 30-second pitch summarizing your business and what makes it special. If you can't say it in two sentences, no one will even get what your business is."

DRIVE ME CRAZY

"I was at a stoplight with my BFF when we saw an uber-hot guy behind us. He totally caught us checking him out. The light turned green, I hit the gas, but as I was glancing at him through my rearview mirror, bang—I rear-ended the car in front of me! Cue hot guy driving around me, laughing. End of car flirtationship."

AWK-AWARD

a big hit

"I was goofing around in class, trying to balance a sweatshirt on my head. As it slipped off, I attempted to catch it before it fell to the ground. Little did I know, my teacher was standing next to me. As I shot my arm out to catch the jacket, I accidentally punched him in his . . . you know. He hasn't looked me in the eye since."

BRA-VO

"One day in class, my guy friend kept saying that he could unhook my bra with one hand. I was skeptical, 'cause I was pretty sure I couldn't. So when I went to show him how hard it was, I unhooked it in one try! I tried fixing it, but my teacher saw and asked if I needed to go to the bathroom to 'situate myself.' Yeah, I did."

wuss in boots

"I was strutting around the mall in new boots with my BF, but the bottoms were slick on the polished floor. I was feeling pretty cute—until I slipped and fell on my butt! Worst part? My BF didn't even notice and kept walking. The freaking Wetzel's Pretzels guy had to help me up."

Did I really just say orgasm instead of organism in front of my science class? #facepalm walk of shayne

"I went to the movies on a blind date. In the middle of the movie, I got up to use the bathroom. We were sitting high up in the back, and I slipped and basically fell down two flights of stairs in front of the whole audience! Everyone turned to look at me, but the movie was playing so I couldn't make a joke. Walking back to my seat afterward was the most embarrassing thing ever!"

IS THAT A MIRROR IN YOUR PANTS?

under where?

"I was passing notes in class with my guy friend. He jokingly wrote, 'Is that a mirror in your pants? I can see myself in them.' I had a skirt on, so trying to be clever, I wrote back, 'I'm not wearing pants!' He erased the word pants and wrote panties. Just then, our teacher caught us, snatched the note, and read it aloud! Now everyone asks me if I'm wearing underwear. Awesome."

MAY horoscope

by sally brompton

taurus

Apr 20–May 20 Near the 22nd, a friend will tell you a secret about her guy. Keeping stuff private is usually NBD, but between your jealousy over their relationship (classic Taurus issue!) and the work of Mercury and Jupiter, you'll be tempted to spill it. Watch out! 📢

VIRGO

Aug 23–Sep 22 Virgo girls have come down with a big case of spring fever! (Can anyone say road trip?!) Finding a date when all your BFFs are free to travel has been tough, but Mercury will open up a window the weekend of the 12th, so lock it down. Bon voyage! 🗺️

CAPRICORN

Dec 22–Jan 19 At a fun event around the 6th, you'll find yourself sitting next to one of the hottest guys at school. You'll feel tongue-tied at first, but Saturn will help you come up with the perfect icebreaker. Let the flirting begin! 💬

gemini

May 21–Jun 20 Your girls may be drooling over your hot new BF, but when the moon is full on the 6th, something will happen that will make you feel like he's been playing you. No matter what anyone else says, you'll have to trust your gut. 📢

libra

Sep 23–Oct 22 Your crush will ask you to hang out this month! Your first date will have a friendly vibe rather than a flirty one, so you may doubt his feelings. That's just Venus in retrograde, encouraging you to take it slow. He's into you; don't worry! 💬

AQUARIUS

Jan 20–Feb 18 Lately you've been letting big assignments slide, and midmonth, Neptune will fuel your procrastination even more. Ugh! You'll need to enlist a study buddy to help you focus and power through. Your reward? A party on the 23rd to celebrate your success! 🎉

CANCER

Jun 21–Jul 22 The warmer weather has you jonesing for new clothes. FYI: Springtime brights look amazing on Cancers. Just steer clear of the mall on the weekend of the 12th, when Jupiter will push you to splurge. You may blow your budget in one debit-card swipe! 💳

scorpio

Oct 23–Nov 21 Your sked has been so busy lately, you haven't had much time for your BFF. During the solar eclipse on the 20th, you'll realize how much you miss her and plan a special girls' night for the two of you. Aw! She'll be so touched. Bond restored! 🗺️

PISCES

Feb 19–Mar 20 A pal's nonstop bragging has been bugging the crap out of you! Thanks to Mercury, who loves a fight, you'll fantasize about knocking her ego down to size, especially around the 13th. That will just stir up drama you don't need; avoid her if you can! 📢

LEO

Jul 23–Aug 22 A party invite around the 4th will give you the chance to chat up a guy you've been crushing on! The prob? There are a few other girls who are waiting for him to notice them too! He'll dig your confidence if you walk right up and say hi. You've got this! 💬

SAGITTARIUS

Nov 22–Dec 21 You've been dreaming of a makeover, and on the 24th, the sun and Mercury will be your personal stylists! You'll find key pieces you've needed forever, plus a few trendy accessories that are just so Sag. Be prepared to turn heads when you show off your new look! 💫

aries

Mar 21–Apr 19 Your friends can tell something is bothering you, but revealing vulnerable emotions doesn't come easy to fierce Aries girls. Luckily on the 20th, the sun will nudge you to talk about what's up. You'll feel better afterward! 🗺️
